

Club Resource Group is committed to sustainable design practices and believes in using green products to create healthy buildings while minimizing the impact on the environment. We believe everyone involved in the building process should take an active role in implementing responsible consumption practices and advance sustainable building practices wherever possible. We are dedicated to protecting the environment and the health and safety of our employees as well as the planet's.

Club Resource Group is further committed to helping its customers to help achieve Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) certification and other standards issued by the US Green Building Council. Visit our website for more information on Locker Systems, Casegoods, and Furnishings.
